BOND WITH THE NEW MAGAZINE MI6 DECLASSIFIED ISSUE #1 OUT NOW

(London, UK, October 23rd, 2007) Introducing MI6 Declassified, the new full colour magazine celebrating the world of James Bond and beyond.

From the first James Bond novel "Casino Royale" by Ian Fleming published in 1953, to the blockbuster movie adaptation in 2006 starring Daniel Craig, 007 has become one of the most popular franchises worldwide. Packed with an arsenal of fascinating features and eye-popping visuals, whether your passion is with the books, comics, games, music or films, MI6 Declassified will satisfy your appetite for all aspects of the Bond canon.

The debut issue includes:

- Casino Royale on location with Gary Powell & Alexander Witt and the second unit
- Twice Is The Only Way To Live celebrating the 40th Anniversary of You Only Live Twice
- 007 Stripped a tribute to John McLusky, the creator of the face of James Bond
- Young Bond Charlie Higson reflects on Bond's early adventures
- Collecting a look inside the Sideshow Studio and their James Bond figures
- Bond Girls digitizing the new generation for From Russia With Love
- The Bond Connection writers Neal Purvis and Robert Wade talk about Johnny English
- The Last Word Michael Madsen on his role as Falco in Die Another Day
